HAMBURG

Hip and happening, you could say Hamburg is the new Berlin, but it's just so totally different. More chic maybe, but with just the right organic farm-to-table style restaurants, boutiques selling unique pieces and parks, museums and lots of water to make a trip super versatile.

Everything is impeccably done, especially the Pinterest-worthy Hotel Gastwerk. Anyone who enters will be impressed by the gigantic lobby of this industrial-chic hotspot: it used to store over 5,000 tons of coal! The brick walls and leather couches in the lobby, and the art-filled restaurant, make it the perfect place for a getaway, with either friends or your lover. Book a loft – again, with brick walls, soft natural colours and a homey vibe that makes you feel like you're living in Brooklyn. One more piece of advice: after a day of shopping – Hamburg is not only the second fashion capital of Germany, it's also the birth place of Kaiser Karl – treat yourself to a refreshing and reviving footbath and massage. If you plan to go dancing later, this may well be a life saver. From €120, Gastwerk.com
